A Manley Rod and Amphibia Sunglasses

Manley Rods are built with one purpose: to perform at the highest level. Whether you're a bass addict or redfish junkie, these rods will give you peace of mind in knowing you'll feel every bite while having all the backbone you need to pull a big fish out of heavy cover. The patent-pending "Adjust-A-Butt" MRF System allows anglers to adjust the length of their rod butt on the fly. This means you can use one rod for multiple techniques or lures, reducing the number of rods you need to keep on the boat. These rods will meet the needs of even the most competitive anglers and help you get more fish in the boat when it counts.

All these Amphibia sunglasses float and all of them have our AquaArmor lens technology. AquaArmor is our proprietary lens coating combination which includes a hydrophobic coating on the front and an anti-fog coating on the rear of each lens. Also, each frame has our patented Aircel technology which allows us to create buoyancy without jeopardizing the quality of the frame material. Due to our patent protection, all of our floating competition is forced to use cheap/lightweight plastic which is very brittle and...cheap. By trapping air in our Aircels we are able to use much higher quality frame material (TR-90) and also enables us to attain the highly coveted ANSI Z87.1 safety impact rating. The fact that we can maintain buoyancy while also being dense enough to attain our Z87.1 safety rating is a huge selling point.
